Paltz Officials Plead for Painting

NEW PALTZ

A painting of the famed 19th century abolitionist Sojourner Truth has been missing from the SUNY at New Paltz library that bears her name since early August, and College officials have come to the public to appeal for help in its recovery.

With an insurance value of about $1,000, the painting by the late Woodstock artist Dudley Summers that was prominently displayed in the Sojourner Truth Library lobby is regarded with sentiment as depicting, as history gives us perspective, one of the greatest and most human natives of Ulster County.

The painting was new in 1972 when Summers was prevailed upon by Freeman reporter Tobie Geertsema to donate the portrait to the library, which had just opened its doors in March, 1971. And on the first anniversary of the library's opening, the three by four foot painting was hung with ceremony.

It was felt to be especially fitting, since Sojourner Truth during the resurgence of interest in the Civil War period during the mid-1960s had come to be claimed as a legitimate folk hero in the New Paltz area where she had spent her formative years as a slave.

Born in 1797 to James and Betsy Baumfree, slaves of Charles Hardenburgh, she spent the first years of her life at the Hardenburgh Inn and was sold several times before being set free in 1872 at the age of 30.

Well aware of the evils of slavery, she took up the cudgel against that form of domination in her mid 40's, when the abolitionist movement first gathered strength, and began her endless travels across the land preaching fundamentalist religious doctrine and the right of men and women to be free.

The portrait shows Sojourner Truth as a tall, erect woman standing, wearing a shapeless black dress with a shawl around her shoulders, and carrying a walking stick and all of her worldly possessions in her hands.

The name, to replace her given name of Isabella Van Wagener, she chose for her mission described her travels, as Sojourner, in spreading the Truth.

The Kingston Consolidated School District in 1973 rededicated its School No. 8 on Franklin Street as Sojourner Truth School. It was to this elementary school that the statue of this woman thr resided in Kingston's old City Hall was moved this year.

Sojourner Truth received nationwide attention in March as the subject of a CBS film documentary.

Guerrillas Seize Three At Egyptian Embassy

MADRID (UPI) — Palestinian guerrillas seized the Egyptian embassy today and threatened to kill the ambassador and two other Egyptian diplomats unless Egypt renounces the interim peace agreement with Israel by midnight (6 p.m. EDT).

A spokesman for the guerrillas told UPI by telephone that five Palestinian raiders had barricaded themselves inside the embassy and mined the building.

"The moment someone opens the door or a window, the whole place will blow up," he said.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat held the Palestine Liberation Organization and its leader, Yasser Arafat, personally responsible for the consequences of the embassy raid, an Egyptian official announced in Cairo.

The official said the Egyptian leader warned he would take "decisive measures" if the PLO and Arafat failed to ensure the immediate release of the Egyptian ambassador and his aides.

In Beirut, a spokesman for the PLO and other major Palestinian organizations denied involvement in the attack.

The guerrillas called their commando unit "The Group of the Fallen Abdel Kader al Houseni," after a Palestinian leader killed in a clash with a Jewish group in 1947.

They demanded that the Egyptian peace delegation to Geneva leave the Swiss city by midnight without signing documents of the interim Sinai agreement negotiated by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Simultaneously with the raid on the embassy, another band of about 50 Arab students occupied the Madrid offices of the Arab League, but they later voluntarily surrendered and released two hostages, the news agency Citra said.

Egypt and Israel initiated the interim peace accord Sept. 1, but their delegations in Geneva are now negotiating terms on ways of putting the accord into effect.

It widens the buffer zone in the Sinai desert separating the two armies and calls for Israeli withdrawal from the Mitla and Gidi passes and the Abu Rodeis oil fields and the stationing of 200 American technicians in the Sinai as peace monitors.

The agreement has come under attack from radicals in the Arab world, who charge that it ignored the interests of the Palestinians and the other countries—Jordan and Syria — whose territory Israel also occupied in the 1967 war.

The Kuwaiti, Iraqi, Jordanian and Algerian ambassadors entered the Egyptian embassy building to negotiate with the raiders.

Police with helmets and bulletproof vests and a dozen police vehicles ringed the building and blocked traffic, creating huge traffic jams in the downtown area.

The three hostages included Egyptian Ambassador Mahmoud Abdel Ghaffar, Consul Mohamed el-Shaffei Mekki, and press attache Mohamed elAffifi.

The 55-year-old ambassador told Britain's Independent Radio news in an interview, "We are gathered in a room, sitting together, chatting nicely. They are not offending us... They have explosives in every corner."

A spokesman for the guerrillas told UPI by phone the Palestinians freed six Spanish embassy employees, among them four women. He said they were interested only in holding representatives of the Egyptian government, not Spanish civilians.

Karate...Political Style

Hopeful Signs in NYC Teachers' Strike

NEW YORK (UPI) — Contract talks in the teachers' strike resume tonight in an atmosphere of optimism created by the union's apparent expectation that its remaining differences with city officials can be settled in an hour.

A series of meetings and a vote announced Sunday night by the United Federation of Teachers (UFT) suggested that its members might be back in the schools as early as Tuesday afternoon.

The UFT said in a statement that its 75-member executive board will meet in Madison Square Garden's Felt Forum at 9 p.m., "either to ratify a prospective agreement or to reaffirm the strike."

The 55,000 teachers went on strike Sept. 9 in protest against what they termed excessively large classes and other unsatisfactory conditions. Their action halted schooling for the city's 1.1 million public school students only one-day after the fall term resumed.

Formal negotiations, recessed Sunday afternoon for the Yom Kippur holiday, are to resume at 8 p. A UFT spokesman said the two sides are so close to agreement that an hour may be enough to clear up the remaining details.

The UFT announced also that its 1,300-member delegate assembly, with chapter chairmen from the city's 950 schools, will meet in the Felt Forum at midnight tonight, after which the hall will remain open through the night until 11 a.m. Tuesday to give the union's members a chance to vote.

Representatives of the union and the Board of Education talked informally at the Plaza Hotel through most of the day Sunday. When the meetings recessed for the holiday shortly before 4 p.m., UFT President Albert Shanker said "there's been some progress."

Both sides have been hoping to settle the dispute before 2:30 p.m. Tuesday, when Shanker faces a court appearance that might result in his being jailed for defying a court order to send the teachers back to work.

But schools were closed to 530,000 Chicago public school pupils for a ninth class day today and no new negotiations were scheduled between striking teachers and the school board.

Chicago Teachers Union President Robert Healey said chances of a settlement look so bleak that teachers will start alternate schools and field trips for the youngsters this week.

"We had been working on this idea in case we had a long strike, which we didn't anticipate," he said. "But we are now preparing for a long road."

Negotiations between the Chicago Teachers Union and the school board broke off Sunday with no time set for resumption. School Supt. Joseph Hannon, in his strongest statement yet, said he will ask the board to seek a back-to-work court order if the walkout doesn't end soon.

The two major unresolved issues in Chicago were salaries and class size.

There was one bright spot for Chicago. City College teachers, on strike since Aug. 25, returned to classes today after their union's governing body approved a contract agreement reached Sunday.

Union President Norman Swenson was given a five-month prison term last week because the union defied a court order to return to work. He was freed during each day of negotiations to represent the union in talks but has had to return to jail each night. He remained in prison today.

Teachers' strikes continued in 10 states today, affecting nearly two million children.

A weekend settlement was reached in Huntington, Pa., where teachers returned to work today, ending a three-week strike. But strikes in 24 other Pennsylvania districts affected some 150,000 students.

Wilmington, Del., teachers were warned to return to work today or face possible arrest for defiance of a court's back-to-work order. School board officials said negotiations could resume if a "substantial" number of teachers returned to work, allowing classes to continue regularly for 14,200 students.

Strikes hampered the education of 24,000 students in New Jersey, 50,600 in Rhode Island, 15,000 in Washington state, 24,000 in California, 33,700 in Massachusetts and 14,000 in Delaware.

Phase II Construction Approved

KINGSTON

Mayor Francis R. Koenig announced today that the New York State Parks and Recreation Commission has given its final approval for Phase II construction of the Dietz Stadium swimming pool.

Phase II includes the bathhouse and supporting facilities. Bids for that phase of the project were opened on July 16, but came in some $18,000 above the $85,000 the city had budgeted for Phase II. The time since then has been spent redesigning aspects of the second phase in order to bring the cost down, and in awaiting state approval for the redesigned plans.

Koenig said today that he expects construction to begin "shortly." He said that "contractors have been contacted and are presently signing the necessary documents and supplying required performance bonds."

Unless there are further snags in construction of the pool complex—which was first approved back in 1972—city residents should be doing back flips and full twists with the first warm weather of 1976.

Koenig, in the meantime, used today's press release to respond to comments made earlier by William K. Darling, the Republican mayoral candidate, concerning the financial implications of the new pool complex. Koenig says Darling has contended that the city will incur a bonded indebtedness of $208,000 to defray construction costs.

Apparently the Republican candidate for mayor does not know the difference between bonded indebtedness and a revenue anticipation note," Koenig today. "To clarify the issue, the city, under law, had to approve a revenue anticipation note for the full cost of the project in anticipation of the $104,000 to be received from the state and the $104,000 to be received from the Andretta Foundation in order to have funds available to pay the contractors until the funds are reimbursed by both parties. The city will not be bonding $208,000 as the Republican candidate would try to make the general public believe."

Koenig noted that the Andretta Foundation has guaranteed $104,000 toward the construction price of the new pool; the state has agreed to provide matching funds up to $104,000. He said that as bills are received from the contractors, the foundation and the state will reimburse the city, thereby eliminating the revenue anticipation note.

Skyjacker Is Killed

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — A police sharpshooter early today shot and killed a gunman as he stood in the doorway of a parked Continental 727 jetliner he had hoped to hijack with three hostages.

"He was shot in the head and killed instantly by one of our local SWAT team men with a rifle," Lt. Don Trujillo said.

A few minutes earlier, the gunman, whom police refused to identify, had shot one of his hostages in the leg with a .38-caliber revolver as he tried to flee the aircraft.

The other hostage escaped uninjured and, at that point, the would-be skyjacker seized mechanic Alden Lindekugle, 40, of San Jose, and held him inside the aircraft while officers yelled for him to come out with his hands up.

"There was no possibility that the plane could have been flown," Trujillo said.

He explained that officers shot out the tires and Lindekugle thus was unable to obey the hijacker's order to fly the aircraft.

Police said the scenario began when the gunman, described only as a San Jose white man in his 30s, stabbed a woman in the heart Sunday night. The unidentified woman was taken to a hospital, where she was reported in critical condition but expected to survive.

The gunman then seized a man and took him to Reid-Hillview Airport but failed to get an aircraft. He picked up another hostage and drove to Municipal Airport, where he found the 727.

Police were withholding identification of the wounded woman and the gunman until relatives could be notified.

Refund for Bank Robber

NEW YORK (UPI) — A convicted bank robber who ordered the book "How to Rob Banks Legally" but failed to receive it asked state Attorney General Louis Lefkowitz for help.

The inmate now has a $10.80 refund, Lefkowitz said Sunday night.

In a statement, Lefkowitz said the inmate, who is serving a 15-to-30-year term for armed robbery at Green Haven prison in Stormville, complained to his office that the company which advertised "the investor's type of book" took his money but failed to deliver.

The unidentified inmate asked Lefkowitz to get him the book or his money back.

Lefkowitz said he had secured a $10.80 refund check from the mail order company.

Four-Point Program Listed By Policy Director

By Tim Schuster

KINGSTON William F. Gorog, deputy director for domestic economic policy in the Ford administration, recited the traditional litany of conservative economics to the New York State Press Association Saturday night, an aggregation of more than 100 publishers and editors of weekly newspapers.

He pronounced a four-point program that boiled down to biting the bullet for the average wage earner and giving industry added tax incentives.

His most optimistic forecast was to have the country "back in order by mid-1976," and he defined order as "the same condition we had in 1973. We will have the 1974 and 1975 unemployed all back to work."

Pointing to the additional 1.6 million per year moving into the nation's labor force and four million new teenagers a year, he gloomily added that "even if we returned to work all those laid off, we would still have six to seven percent unemployment because there aren't enough production jobs." He added, "It's frightening."

He did state that retail sales have hit a new high and the gross national product has "turned around after a disastrous six months" and intoned, "We are climbing up out of this mire we have been in."

Gorog's recommendation for during what he sees as the basic economic ill of the country ("There is not enough money on the bottom line for business") was to give these four pointers: 1—"grass roots economy"; the public must demand less. 2—"adjust tax policy to provide incentive for industry," or "we must slightly tilt the economy to give more funds back to the small and large businesses. 3) we must "make progress in regulatory abuse," and he cited such things as environmental considerations. 4) a national energy policy of constraint; "we've got to have courage to be tough here, in consumerism."

He capsulized his idea of the problem in stating that there was "not enough capital for expansion" inherent in the present economic system for business, and said this caused the closing down of marginal businesses during the past five years.

Gorog did not explain how production jobs could be created while people were supposed to cut down consumerism, or who was supposed to buy the new merchandise.

He freely stated that the "culprits" in the present situation were members of Congress and "people who place a demand on Congress." He decried big government, stating that one-third of the gross national product flows through one or another of our governments in this country.

"Can we continue to support this level?" he asked, answering his own question with, "It may not be necessary to cut back, but we must draw the line."

He claimed that the high rate of inflation (more than 25 percent) in Great Britain and the low wages (average $2.50 an hour for working people) were the result of policies foisted on the nation by the Labor Party. "It's New York City on a grand scale," he declared.

DAVID JOSEPH NAACP Dinner to Honor 4

KINGSTON Four persons will be honored at the First Annual Appreciation Dinner of the Ulster County Branch of the NAACP, to be held at the Gov. Clinton Hotel, Saturday, Sept. 20, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Those to be honored include: Mrs. Jeanette Washington, organizer for the New Central Baptist Church, for her willing service at many other church and organizational functions in the area; Everette Hodge, president of the Ulster County NAACP, for his years of dedicated service to the community and the civil rights cause; Stanley Faulkner, attorney, retained by the local chapter, for the donation of his legal services to the branch for the civil right cause; and a youth, whose name has not been publicly announced, for significant contributions to the community.

Rembrandt Painting Slashed

AMSTERDAM, the Netherlands (UPI) — Museum experts say it will take months of delicate repair work to patch up the slashes in Rembrandt's masterpiece, "The Night Watch."

An unemployed teacher who said he was guided by "supernatural forces" fought off a museum guard Sunday and ripped the painting more than a dozen times with a knife, police said.

Pieter van Thiel, deputy director at the Rijksmuseum, said the painting was seriously damaged but restorers could fix the slashes in about four months. He said only experts would be able to detect the repairs.

Police said the suspect — Willemus Adrianus de Rijk, 38, a former mental patient — arrived soon after the Rijksmuseum, Amsterdam's state museum, opened for the day.

"A man showed up in front of the painting who looked like any normal visitor to the guard," van Thiel said. "Suddenly he pulled out a big knife and started slashing away at the lower part of the large canvas."

He said the suspect slashed the painting again and again, fighting off a museum guard and a visitor before finally being subdued by a stranglehold.

A witness counted 13 vertical tears, some almost three feet long. He said a triangular piece of canvas, measuring three by 11 inches, fell to the floor.

Police said de Rijk had a history of mental instability and had been a patient at a mental hospital. A museum spokesman said the suspect lost a teaching job for being medically unfit.

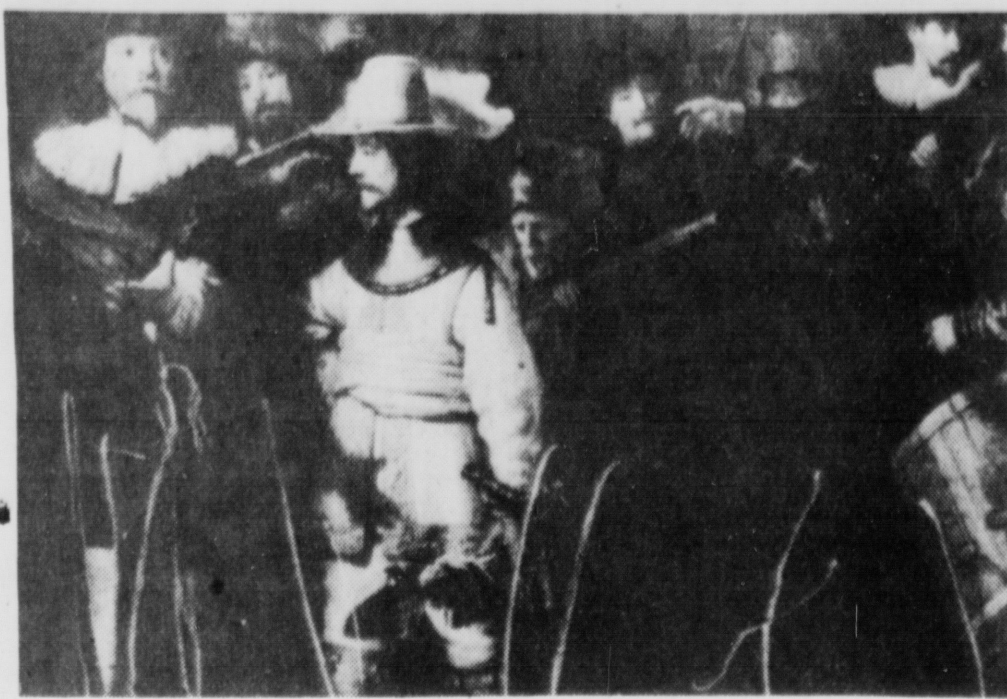

Police said the suspect told officers he felt an "irresistible urge" to attack the painting and had been "forced to act by supernatural forces."

"I did not attack a human," the suspect was quoted as saying. "It was a painting. I had to do it."

Police said the suspect took the knife from a restaurant.

The painting, measuring 11 feet 9 1/4 inches by 14 feet 4 1/2 inches, was the largest and one of the most famous works by the 17th century Dutch master.

The painting, which reflects Rembrandt's genius for contrasting shades of light, shows a company of guards turning out for duty under their officers.

Stretch Run for N.H. Senate Candidates

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — Name-calling and charges of a last-minute smear involving the issue of gun control hung today over New Hampshire's rerun U.S. Senate election on the eve of voting.

Democrat John Durkin and Republican Louis Wyman appeared in Boston Sunday (on ABC's "Issues and Answers" program). Durkin accused Wyman of playing Watergate-style campaign tricks with a letter saying Durkin favors federal control of firearms and would promote gun confiscation laws.

Wyman headquarters quoted Durkin as saying in a 1974 interview with the New Hampshire Outdoorsman, "I think the new Massachusetts gun law is a step in the right direction." That law requires a mandatory one-year jail sentence if a person is found guilty of carrying an unregistered firearm.

Voters return to the polls Tuesday to choose between Wyman, Durkin and the American party's C. Carmen Chimento.

Last November's election ended in a virtual tie between Wyman and Durkin. A new election was called when two state recounts and seven months of Senate review failed to resolve the deadlock.

Durkin said he was "interested in Mr. Wyman's position on truth because he knows on two occasions in debate I (have said I) am flatly opposed to gun control, flatly opposed to confiscation."

When the program ended, Durkin turned to Wyman and said, "I'm ashamed of you, Louis." Wyman replied, "I'm ashamed of you, John, you're a liar."

Wyman, a five-term former congressman and long-time opponent of gun control, accused Durkin of changing his position on gun control.

"Now you find the sentiment in New Hampshire you think is very strongly opposed to gun control so you're against gun control, like you approach these issues on a populist basis, issue after issue," Wyman said.

"Do you want to be senator that badly that you would stoop to that level to purposely (introduce) a Segretti-type letter in the last minute of a political campaign when you know a person can't rebut that? That's ... the lesson of Watergate and evidently you haven't learned it yet, Mr. Wyman," Durkin said.

President Ford and former

California Gov. Ronald Reagan campaigned for Wyman last week.

Durkin discounted the impact of the visits. He said New Hampshire's 447,000 eligible voters would "make up their own minds in their own way."

Airmail Stamps on the Way Out

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Postal Service today announced changes in the first class service that will make airmail stamps almost unnecessary.

The Postal Service said its first-class service is so good now it expects to be able to deliver more than 90 percent of first-class mail the next day or the second day after posting, effective Oct. 11.

"The practical effect of the improvement program is that domestic first class postage will purchase the level of service that previously only airmail could buy," a spokesman said.

The program covers first class mail that weighs 13 ounces or less and the familiar white-top post boxes used by airmail patrons will be collected and converted for other purposes, the Postal Service said.

Beginning next Monday, post offices will accept air mail stamps and stamped cards and envelopes in exchange for the equivalent value in ordinary stamps, envelopes and cards. Stationary that is marked "airmail" will be allowed at first-class rates.

Postmaster Benjamin Franklin Bailar has promised improvements in the service while also warning that it would cost more for consumers and in government subsidies.

The announced program will not cover priority mail starting at 14 ounces or air parcel service and international airmail.

Airmail stamps will be sold for priority and international airmail patrons.

So consumers know what to expect from the improvements, the Postal Service said it will display maps in Post Office lobbies so customers can determine which cities and areas will be scheduled for next and second day delivery from their mailing location.

The Postal Service said it will be able to accomplish its improvements as a result of extensive use of air transport, collection service changes and automated letter sorting.

Viet Clemency Program Ends

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After one year, the clemency program for Vietnam war resisters ends today. The man who ran it says he is pleased with the program, but many of those it most affected are not satisfied.

President Ford scheduled a farewell meeting with the 18-member Clemency Board, which was to present its final batch of recommendations.

Its chairman, Charles Goodell, said, "We're quite pleased with the work the board has done."

"The program has completely failed in all areas," said Warren Hoover, executive director of the National Interreligious Service Board for Conscientious Objectors. "Less than 20 per cent of the people eligible applied and many of them have since dropped out."

Both sides concede the program failed to reach vast numbers of young men who found themselves in legal jeopardy because of the war.

Ford said when he announced the program Sept. 16, 1974, that its "primary purpose" was the "reconciliation . . . and restoration of essential unity of Americans."

The latest preliminary statistics show the Clemency Board received about 16,500 applications from an estimated potential of about 100,000.

Draft dodgers and deserters, including many who went to Canada and Europe and still have not been indicted, were eligible to apply for generally low-paying, public service-type civilian jobs.

After serving for up to two years, but usually after only a few months, they would avoid prosecution or would receive a presidential pardon if they had convictions.

Almost before the ink was dry on Ford's proclamation, most amnesty proponents said the program was "punitive" and the major exile organizations abroad were calling for a boycott of the Ford program while continuing to demand universal and unconditional amnesty.

"We feel that we did a good job," Goodell said. "Our intentions were good and everyone who came through here got a fair shake. We did a service for these people."

Fire In Rhinebeck

RHINEBECK

A second story office area at the residence of Elias Beach, 95 Montgomery Street, Rhinebeck, was extensively damaged by fire Sunday night.

Rhinebeck fireman said flames were shooting from the windows of the office area when they arrived at the scene, shortly after 5 p.m. Fire damage was confined to the office and roof of the two-story building.

The blaze was apparently caused by a cigarette, fire officials said.

Some 43 firemen battled the blaze. No injuries were reported.

'Friendly Course'

A 10-session course in "Italian—A Friendly Introduction" will begin Tuesday at Ulster County Community College. Registration for the credit free course—which is designed for both beginning and advanced language students—can be conducted through the college's Continuing Education Office at the Stone Ridge campus. The class will meet every Tuesday night.

Autos: 'Worst Is Over'

DETROIT (UPI) — Analysts say early September new car sales reports will confirm what auto executives have proclaimed recently — that the worst is over for the depressed industry.

Industry analysts said reports due today from the four U.S. carmakers will show sales 14 percent below a year ago, but equal to the same period in 1973 just before the Arab oil embargo sent the industry into a two-year slump.

Sales were expected to reach about 140,000 cars and could go as high as 145,000. The higher figure would surpass 1973 and put this year's Sept. 1-10 period on the books as the fifth best in history.

Senate Leader In Power

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — Senate leader Italo Luder has taken over as caretaker president of troubled Argentina, replacing an exhausted Isabel Peron for a month — and maybe longer.

Leaders of the ruling Peronist party as well as the opposition greeted the change with optimism and hailed the peaceful transfer of power as a triumph for the constitutional process.

Mrs. Peron, 44, left the Argentine capital of Buenos Aires Sunday for a vacation at an air force-run estate in the northern town of Ascocihinga. She said she would return to

However, there still were signs that all is not well with the industry.

Long-term layoffs today still numbered 81,600 workers out of the industry's blue collar force of 700,000. Because of the switch to 1976-model production, temporary layoffs climbed from 3,025 last week to 14,275 today.

The trade publication Automotive News said car inventories that held steady during July began to climb again in August, reaching a 70-day supply.

The rise was due in part to production of 1976 models which don't go on sale until mid-September.

Analysts said the 70-day inventory, a record high for August, was still well below the 100-day supplies of early January that triggered massive layoffs and production cutbacks. A 60 to 65-day supply is considered normal.

In the Sept. 1-10 period last year, domestic new car sales hit a daily rate of 20,310 cars, just short of the record set in 1955.

Analysts said the early September sales, which included some 1976 models, were especially good in comparison with past years when the new models were introduced in the early part of the month. Introductions this year will run from mid-September through late October.

Senate Leader In Power

Noticias Argentinas said Luder will try to oust Mrs. Peron's backers from the government.

Reports named Interior Minister Col. Vicente Damasco, Labor Minister Carlos Ruckauf and Social Welfare Minister Carlos Emery as candidates for dismissal.

Luder refused to reveal details Sunday of the changes but said the cabinet reshuffle "will be the theme of the next press conference we have."

Mrs. Peron's departure followed months of speculation she would either take a leave or resign the presidency in the face of staggering inflation, unemployment and political violence that has claimed over 400 lives this year.

The prolonged political, labor and economic crisis seriously undermined Mrs. Peron's authority, damaged her health and fueled fears of a military coup.

But Peronist Sen. Alfredo Penissi said Luder's peaceful takeover proved that "democracy triumphed again in our country, in spite of the bad omens, now that the law of presidential succession has been followed."

Luder is the fifth Peronist president to take office constitutionally since Argentina ended seven years of military government in 1973. Mrs. Peron took office July 1, 1974, on the death of her husband, Juan Peron.

Brothers' Trial To Begin

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI) — Nelson Bunker and W. Herbert Hunt, heirs to one of the world's richest private fortunes, go on trial Tuesday on charges they wiretapped telephones of their late father's aides.

The trial, which comes three years after the charges were filed and five years after the wiretapping allegedly occurred, marks the first real exposure to the general public for the brothers, despite their wealth and vast corporate holdings.

The lingering case and the allegations preceding it have unearthed surprising and, some say, unlikely tales of CIA conspiracies, government vengeance against the Hunt empire and dealings with Egyptian terrorist groups.

In recent weeks, the sons of the late, legendary oil billionaire H.L. Hunt have shunned their previous obscurity and attempted in interviews to appear simply as hardworking businessmen just trying to make a buck.

'Patty Is Innocent'

LANTANA, Fla. (UPI) — Analysis of tapes made by missing heiress Patty Hearst shows she joined the Symbionese Liberation Army against her will and is afraid the SLA will harm her if she comes forward—if she is still alive—according to the National Enquirer.

The weekly tabloid, in its Sept. 23 edition, said former intelligence officer Charles McQuiston reached the conclusion Miss Hearst is an innocent victim of the SLA after he analyzed tapes with a "Psychological Stress Evaluator."

The evaluator, which decides on truth by charting stress patterns in the voice and translating the patterns into graphs, was used to analyze five tapes made by Miss Hearst after her abduction in February, 1974.

In the tapes, Miss Hearst called her parents "pigs" and said she had joined the SLA, but the Enquirer reported McQuiston as saying "her supposed conversion took place under extreme duress."

"The PSE tells me that Patty was under extraordinary pressure and she was appalled at the statements she was coerced into making," he said. "The FBI claims Patty has changed into a fiery revolutionary, but that's bunk. She was merely reading from a prepared script under command."

The tests of the tapes show that Miss Hearst is terrified and fears she will be killed, still loves her parents and was forced to participate in a bank robbery, McQuiston said.

Meanwhile, in other area police matters:

Saugerties Town Police arrested Bernard Howard, 21, of 2 James Street, Saugerties, Sunday night on charges of year-old girl in a parked car in the Town of Esopus.

Kingston Detectives are investigating three burglaries reported early Sunday and Sunday night.

Detectives said a coin collection was taken from the Harold Quick residence, 88

Downs Street, at about 2:40 a.m. Coins from a cigarette machine and a quantity of liquor was taken from Papa Joe's, 7 Downs Street, at about 3 a.m. Sunday. Police said same burglar or burglars are believed to have committed both thefts. Most of the items taken were reported recovered from areas where they were hidden in the Downs Street section. On Sunday night, a window at 171 Henry Street was reported smashed. There a masked burglar allegedly entered and made off with a purse containing $20.

Police Beat

Police, a neighbor of the William Lazarus residence on Crescent Lane spotted the two youths leaving the Lazarus home. One drove off in the car the pair had arrived in; the second drove off in the Lazarus car.

New Paltz Police received the initial report, but missed catching the burglars, and state police were called in to assist. An areaside alert was put out, and sometime later the Montgomery Police Department stopped the stolen Lazarus vehicle on Route 17K in Montgomery.

Later, Leonard F. Kendall, 28, and Carlos P. Lens, 18, both of Spanish Alps, Route 32, Plattekill, were turned over to state police and charged in connection with the burglary and car theft. A search of the pair's residence resulted in the recovery of property allegedly taken and in additional charges of possession of a controlled substance in the sev-

Police were called to the scene by a passerby who spotted the incident. Mrs. Howard was taken to Kingston Hospital by Saugerties Ambulance and was treated and released.

Howard was jailed in lieu of $500 bail following the 6:30 p.m. incident.

The 11th Ward

Mr. Terrence Taylor's allegedly switched vote in the Conservative Primary has got to give rise to political curiosity. Mr. Taylor, in a sworn statement, states he certainly did cast his ballot for Mrs. Roberta Kolts, but the tally sheet sent along to the board of Elections shows that the sole voter in the 11th Ward gave Democrat T. Robert Gallo the nod in the contest for alderman-at-large. What happened? After the initial reaction of chicanery or even worse, had subsided, cooler thoughts of simply a human goofup surfaced. This seems more the case since any attempt to steal a vote in a one-vote ward not only impugns the honesty of our local politicians but borders on the moronic. Stupid they're not, and hopefully, honest they are. All of which calls for a thorough inquiry to be conducted so that all suspicions can be lifted.

Bureaucratic

Volumes could be folled with political speeches promising to do something about the soze and cost of government and its intrusion into our lives, as a theme of American politics it goes back to the Declaration of Independence. King George III was denounced not just for his oppressive taxes but because he had "erected a multitude of new offices, and sent higher swars of officer s to harass our people and eat out their substance." In the modern context the problem of burgeoning government bureaucracy dates mainly from the New Deal and the wave of federal programs and agencies spawned to treat the depression problems of the 1930s. President Ford's speech to hardware manufacturers in Chicago recently had a familiar ring, but his vow to "cut big government down to size" must be placed in a new perspective.

The mountains of paperwork and quicksand of regulation" which are Mr. Ford's target represent something more than an expensive nuisance. A country which has one person working for government for every four in private employment is facing serious problems in sustaining its economic productivity.

Ironically, the surge in growth of government and its power began in response to the economic depression 40 years ago. Today the tax burdens and regulatory restraints of big government are being identified as factors holding back recovery from the current recession.

Thus the head-count in government offices symbolizes more than the tendency of burraucracy to breed more of the same. It represents a government requiring such a share of our national income that private industry is concerned about the supply of capital to finance its need for plant replacement and expansion. It represents regulation which may have been inspired by the public interest but which has grown to the degree that it is now working against the public interest by discouraging if not stifling competition in the marketplace.

President Ford takes pride in a reduction of 52,000 in the federal work force under its current authorized size. He has high hopes for weeding out some of the 5,000 different forms which various government agencies demand that citizens fill out and return. This chipping away at the federal edifice can be meaningful, however, only if there is a shift in the philosophy which has been building that edifice to such towering size over the last generation.

If Mr. Ford uses this manace of big government as a campaign theme in 1976, he will not be the first candidate to do so. Yet our economic problems are giving the public a fresh understanding of what big government really means. In the 1976 voters may not be as interested in how the government is going to solve all their problems, as in getting the government monkey off their backs.

WASHINGTON—The Senate Intelligence Committee has evidence that exploding light bulbs, silencer-equipped machine guns built into attache cases, and dozens of other James Bond assassination weapons have been purchased in recent years by U.S. intelligence agencies.

The secret arsenal of exotic murder devices includes deadly, but seemingly innocent, household items and intricate remote-control explosive systems for blowing up unsuspecting victims from miles away.

The committee has documentation on these weapons, as well as first-hand information on another U.S. intelligence enterprise: a domestically trained assassination team whose members learn how to kill without leaving clues.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

An Arsenal of Exotic Weapons

Sources close to the committee said there is no present evidence that the killer squad was put into action either abroad or in the United States. And the CIA has steadfastly played down any role in assassinations.

But our sources commented acidly, "If they weren't interested in killing, what do they need these things for? You don't use a light bulb that'll blow a head off to read the paper by." For six months, our sources said, the committee has been sitting on the evidence of the assassin weapons and murder squad. Some senators obviously were not even aware that the material was in the committee files.

Footnote: A committee spokesman declined comment.

HOFFA THEORY: Federal and Michigan investigators are officially keeping quiet on the Jimmy Hoffa case, but a top FBI expert on the Mafia has indulged in some rare private speculation on the mystery.

He barred use of his name, but he is convinced that Hoffa is dead, murdered not by mob godfathers, but violent Teamsters.

This runs counter to theories of most law enforcement men and many of our Mafia contacts. But the agent's dissident view is so compelling it deserves an airing.

"He's killed. He's gone," said the agent in an interview. The most likely suspects in his opinion are "rebel unionists... a group of guys who were very loyal to (Teamster boss Frank) Fitzsimmons.

"They had much trouble on Jimmy's home local 299 with the bombings and the beatings and the shootings and the like. I think they thought Jimmy had something to do with that," the agent went on.

I think they just erased the guy, and I don't think the outfit (Mafia) was involved in it at all." Though the Mafia preferred dealing with Fitzsimmons, he said, it "would get along well under Jimmy as it did for many, many years.

"They wouldn't take that drastic step," the veteran Mafia specialist said. "Generally, in an outfit killing it's because he violated some outfit rule. They only clip the guy if he hurt them.

"Jimmy, he didn't bother anyone."

The agent who over the years had occasion to "work him (Hoffa) all the time," pointed out that Hoffa had been given a whopping pension grant by the Teamsters, but never let the money go to his head. Still, said the agent, he was "power mad. He was a hard guy to figure.

"He didn't drink or smoke, didn't womanize. He'd eat his meals in an airport restaurant and grab a sandwich and eat it on the run... and I don't think he ever really did enjoy it (the pension). He just didn't care for nice clothes or big cars... a rare bird."

For the agent the final mystery about Hoffa was why he did not let it be known that an affidavit with all his revelations of the Mafia would surface if he were killed. This would be a form of insurance against kidnapping of assassination.

"You'd think he'd have some memoirs somewhere, an envelope," mused the agent. "But I don't think that would frighten... those people."

WASHINGTON WHIRL: After denying for months that "mail covers" had been put on anyone in 1975, the Pentagon thought better of it and confirmed to Sen. John Tunney, D-Calif., a few days ago that it had ordered 14 covers. The mail covers permit federal snoopers to keep track of all mail reaching the target of the probe...

The State Department is quietly trying to get Chile to say what happened to 119 Chilean left-wingers whose names turned up in two obscure foreign publications as dying abroad. Some diplomatic insider suggest the Chilean dictatorship faked the death notices to cover the victim's murders inside Chile. In a private letter to Rep. Don Fraser, D-Minn., the State Department said it would "continue our effort to... encourage Chilean officials to clarify the situation."

Ambitious young Charles Seeger, in his effort to unseat Rep. Albert Johnson, R-Pa., hit on a magazine article we wrote in 1972 calling Johnson an "unknown soldier" in Congress. Seeger printed the charge gleefully in his campaign literature. He neglected to mention that we also classified his own ex-boss, former Rep. Charles Teague, R-Calif., as a toady for the "special interests," an honor shared by Seeger himself as Teague's dedicated legislative assistant.

Inside Report

Europe's Future Moment of Truth

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

PARIS—A mood of "détente," unimaginable a year ago, between the U.S. and French President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing is producing political dividends despite a major underlying tensions, most particularly the sharp contradiction between Paris and Washington over the future of Europe.

"We have a détente now with President Ford," French Foreign Minister Jean Sauvagnargues told us at the Quai d'Orsay. "We both need it even though our interests cannot be identical."

A career diplomat and intimate of the French president, Sauvagnargues has helped end the rancid mood of suspicion and mutual recrimination which poisoned relations between his predecessor, Michel Jobert, and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. Early returns from this new civility show visible gains, of which an important part is increasing French cooperation with the military structure of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), which France deserted nine years ago, although staying in the alliance.

At NATO's Brussels headquarters, French liaison officers are more closely involved in all aspects of NATO planning, a change that Gen. Alexander Haig, the NATO commander, is carefully cultivating.

One example: with the full backing of Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger, Haig now provides France and other NATO allies with superior American intelligence, thus voiding—or trying to void—the dangerous knowledge-and-consultation gap which split the U.S. from Europe during the 1973 Middle East war.

More tangible evidence of France's new cooperation with NATO were the U.S. maneuvers on the coast of France near Toulon several months ago. "This would not have been permitted in the bad old days," a U.S. diplomat told us.

There are other examples: growing French contribution to NATO in the form of essential communications across Europe and complete cooperation of France as vital storehouse for NATO's logistics back-up.

There was much satisfaction here over the U.S. decision to buy the Roland II, developed by the French with West German help, as the new, low-level anti-aircraft missile for the U.S. Army in forward battle zones.

None of this means Giscard is thinking of rejoining NATO's military organization. His political base is firmly anchored to Prime Minister Jacques Chirac's powerfully revived Gaullist party, which could regard any such change as heretical. Moreover, even pro-American diplomats quietly reinstated in policy positions at the Quai d'Orsay by Giscard after years of Gaullist disfavor now strongly oppose reintegration.

Thus despite the warming trend, the fundamental conflict between Washington and Paris is far from solution. That conflict is over U.S. policy toward Western Europe and what one official here calls America's "insistence," led by Kissinger, "that Europe's role must be as a satellite revolving around the American Sun."

With its own modest "force de frappe" (now being redesigned for MIRV-able warheads at a huge future cost, France's vision of the middle-distant future perceives a far more independent Europe which, while under the U.S. strategic umbrella, should constitute a powerful military and economic force quite by itself, led by France.

French politicians point to vagaries of American politics, saying it is ridiculous to count for more than another 10 years at most on an American presence in Europe at anything like present levels. That argues for serious moves toward European unity now, requiring American support and sympathy.

But to these politicians, U.S. policy is taking and opposite direction: while talking European unity, the U.S. in fact obstructs it. During the May NATO summit, for example, the French remember one fact above all others; that European unity was never mentioned by the Americans.

The French, accordingly, are caught in a bind. With England and West Germany unable or unwilling to support the French dream of a semi-independent Europe, partly because the existing relationship is so easy and partly for fear of upsetting the U.S.-Soviet balance, the French are immunized.

But the perception here of a larger future European role is not about to disappear. To this contrary, high officials in Paris constantly warn in private that the present European relationship with Washington is inherently unhealthy. More to the point, highly-regarded intellectuals such as Michel Tatu, foreign editor of Le Monde, are amplifying in print what the politicians are thinking.

"The real problem is the absence of political will," Tatu recently wrote. "...The main obstacle to European unity is Europe's military dependence on the United States."

The implication of those words is staggering, but they reflect a truth as perceived by many powerful politicians, even if the moment of that truth lies some years in the future.

A City Better Not to Love

It is easy to put the rap on New York. Everybody does it. The metropolis is broke. The Big Apple is rotten to the core. There is less garbage because the poor are eating it. The knocks come from everywhere.

I have no love for New York. It took 25 years of my learning period. Somewhere between the spires I left a ragged garment called youth. The sleeve is missing. The lining is torn. Let it remain there.

Within me is a cynical gratitude. I was wise to her ways. She was my old prostitute girl friend. She never cared about anything except the next buck. And yet she was tender with a growing boy. She kept telling me that out there I would find a million O. Henry stories.

I believed her. She was a jaded old bag, but she didn't lie. "Look," she said. "I roamed the streets and alleys of the Village, Harlem, Tottenville, Coney Island, the Bronx, the East Side, Cherry Hill."

I looked. Sometimes I found a good love story, or a tricky murder, a sob story, an opening night, a suicide, a chorus girl who thought that beauty was forever, a family and furniture on the sidewalk, a crooked banker caught, a block dance, dark laughter and bright gin in Harlem, night court.

At dawn you could stand in front of the Automat at Times Square. In the silence you could hear the city hum to herself. Big busting bands of yellow and pink came over the Palace Theater to touch the night clouds. A sign said: "Starring Belle Baker." She was old, even then. There were cracks in her cheeks and her eyes were bright with fever. In the garment center men pushed hand trucks freezing to death. The subways roared and rocked the millions. The elevated trains squealed. Trolleys sighed when they stopped.

Everybody was in a hurry. In blinding snow and hot iron heat men rushed to their doom. The unemployed ran faster. We ate fast. We rushed to work; we rushed home. Cardiacs were fashionable. A man had to be well off to have one.

We muscled each other to see John McGraw's Giants. At the Stadium we saw Miller Huggins' sweet patooties—Koenig, Lazzeri, Gerhrig and Ruth. And how about Uncle Wilbert Robinson's Dodgers, the taxi driver yelling up from the street—"So they got three on. How many on second?"

She had a dandy mayor, Jimmy Walker. A crook? So what? She could afford him. And Boss Curry to oversee the stealing and make sure it got to the right pockets.

Larry Fay. Big Frenchie Demange. A bouncer named Toots Shor. John Barrymore telling a mounted policeman, "You're sore because you took the exam for sergeant and your horse passed." Peaches Browning, who holds the record for sleeping with her mother. Or is it schlepping?

The old bag had action. At the glittering Paramount, a skinny kid named Sinatra soloing with a band. Club Eighteen. Leon & Eddie's. N.T.G. The Follies. The Vanities. The Scandals. Nicky Blair. Major Bowes living on top of the Capitol Theater. Gladys Glad. Texas Guinan. The kid who danced for dimes—George Raft. Owney Madden. Lepke. Edward R. Murrow. Allan Courtney. Norman Brokenshire. Grover Whalen. John Hylan. Martin Block.

The old buzzard had her lovers, her idolators, her crushes. It was never wise to love New York. She was better as a weekend woman. Then she would be painted to the night skies in rouge and blue eye shadow. She would don the same tight gown she wore for Jim Fisk and Diamond Jim Brady. And she would smile that wise, one-sided grin and murmur, "Take me, handsome."

On the misty mornings I would leave her. I would turn my back on her and walk and walk. She would whisper, "This is love." But I was young and cruel. "Love," I would say, "is something I must find some day."

And when I drew far enough away, I would turn to look. New York was always lying on her back in the daytime. From a distance, she had a figure like a busted saw...

Mucho Sympathy . . . Little Support for Patriots

BY JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer

The New England Patriots' decision to strike Sunday's National Football League exhibition game against the New York Jets at New Haven Conn., got plenty of sympathy from players around the league but very little support.

The Patriots, according to Player Representative Randy Vataha, staged their strike to pressure the union (the NFL Players Association) and the league (NFL Management Council) to settle their contract differences. They had hoped some of the other clubs would join but none did. Only the New York Giants came close.

The Giants voted to strike before their game against Miami Saturday night but were talked out of it by owner Wellington Mara and several of the Dolphins.

"They (New York players) got furious and decided not to play at all," said Ed Newman, Miami's player rep. "When we heard of this, the captains and I went over to their locker room. We told them we couldn't tell them what to do but we wanted to show that we are still loyal to our fans and a strike would be harmful to all parties concerned."

The St. Louis Cardinals voted 30-16 to strike before their game Sunday against Denver but played after Player Rep Tom Banks decided the margin was not enough.

"When we went into discussions about the situation, one thing that was big in our consideration was to keep this team without the inner conflicts some teams had a year ago," said Banks. "In order to insure that, we shifted from two-thirds to 75 per cent the majority we felt was necessary to require the strike and we allowed every member of team to vote. Even those who were not dues paying members of the National Football League Players Association."

"If we hadn't done that I think we'd have probably not been playing."

Denver Player Rep Ray May said his club would have struck only if the Cardinals had voted not to play.

"We all voted to show up," said May. "But if St. Louis had voted to strike, we would not have suited up. We would have stayed in the locker room and hidden from the fans. A week ago last Friday we voted unanimously for each member of our team to pay the association's $300 dues and fight the issue in

"If this comes up it will be a league vote involving 1,300 players from 26 ballclubs and won't put two ballclubs on a spot like what happened today."

Richard Neal, the Jets' player rep, said he hoped his club would not be penalized for the Patriots' action Sunday.

SPORTS TODAY

"We did not vote to strike this game," Neal said. "If anything, we voted to play this game. We took two votes to express sympathy for the Patriots' situation. We came here to play a football game but we can't play a game if there's nobody to play against."

Elsewhere, the Buffalo Bills were expected to discuss the strike at an informal meeting tonight. Player Rep Reggie McKenzie said he doesn't think the club would call a strike "because of the stand we've taken against the union's leadership."

Only 12 Bills belong to the union, McKenzie said. "The league owners had better get it together in collective bargaining now because strikes could be called in almost any city," McKenzie said. "That's the tempo of the players' mood right now. They don't feel good but I don't think it would happen here."

The Dallas Cowboys said they would not strike. "The feeling of our team is that we wouldn't strike no matter what the union does," said Blaine Nye, the player rep. "They (the NFLPA leaders) didn't ask us to strike because they knew we wouldn't. Ed Garvey's (union leader) feelings were that a league-wide strike wouldn't go this time so he wanted a team to wildcard it."

Cincinnati's Bob Johnson called the Patriots' move, "a big mistake. It was ill-timed. I didn't think it could be done or should be done."

And Washington's Bill Kilmer was in favor of a strike, saying, "somebody has to do something if management locks out the Patriots. If there's going to be a union, we have to stick with it. If not, we have to go our separate ways. Right now, I've paid by dues and I'm part of it. I'd vote for a strike."

Other clubs had individuals responding but most said they would be meeting in the next day or two to discuss the situation and decide as teams.

Most Important NFL Contest: The One That Wasn't Played

BY JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer

The most important game of the National Football League's final weekend of exhibition play was the one that wasn't played Sunday.

That was the scheduled game between New England and the New York Jets at Yale Bowl in New Haven, Conn., and it was canceled when the Patriots voted early Saturday to strike in protest against the NFL's failure to reach a contract agreement with the Players Association.

The NFL Management Council, which represents the league in negotiations, has threatened to stop the Patriots' salaries and keep them from practicing until an accord is reached.

In explaining the mechanics of the strike, Patriot Player Representative Randy Vataha read a statement calling for, "the other 25 NFL teams also to commit themselves to the effort to precipitate meaningful negotiations between the Management Council and the NFLPA. To have all 26 teams (on strike) would be ideal but the first thing is to stop the 13 games next week. We want to find out how many teams are behind us. We now have 100 per cent backing of our players. Any players who said no (on Saturday) now are backing us."

New England players initially voted 37-2, with five abstaining, to strike.

"We took the action to pressure our union as well as the Management Council to get this thing settled," Vataha said. "It's already the longest arbitration that the federal mediator has ever dealt with."

The negotiations began early last year and were not settled after a 42-day player strike. They voted to return to camp and play last season while a contract was negotiated but both sides still refused to budge on the Rozelle Rule or option compensation issue which precipitated the earlier strike.

Players oppose the Rozelle Rule, which stipulates that a club must compensate another club if it signs a player who played out his option with that team. There also has been an objection to reduction in team rosters from 47 to 43 players.

"We can't see letting this thing drag on and on," Vataha said. "If the other teams don't follow our action, we then know our union is not going to strike and we can evaluate our union. Then we know we don't have a strong union and we will have to sign a no-strike pledge and return to training camp on Tuesday or Wednesday. If that happens I don't think many of our players are going to want to pay their ($300 annual) union dues."

New England is scheduled to open its regular season Sunday at home against Houston.

The Patriots had sought to gain support in the strike from the rest of the teams by refusing to play in the nationally televised game but all they got was nominal support. The closest any club came to joining the Patriots was in Miami where the New York Giants voted to strike before their game with the Dolphins. But the intercession of owner Wellington Mara and several Dolphins persuaded the Giants to play the game.

New England's decision will cost the Jets, the home team Sunday, between $50,000-75,000, according to General Manager Al Ward. The advance sale for the game was very light, estimated at about 7,500, and only 15,000 fans were expected.

And while the arguments pro and con regarding the Patriots' strike, termed a walkout by the league and a lockout by the players, raged from coast to coast, the other clubs closed out the pre-season schedule.

In the only other game scheduled Sunday, Denver downed St. Louis 21-17. In Saturday's games, Houston beat Chicago 24-13, Miami whipped the Giants 31-13, Detroit edged Cleveland 27-24, Dallas shaded Pittsburgh 17-16, Atlanta topped Philadelphia 17-14, Cincinnati blanked New Orleans 20-0, San Francisco trounced Green Bay 24-3 and Minnesota and San Diego tied 14-14.

Otis Armstrong scored two touchdowns and ran 41 yards to set up a third as Denver downed St. Louis. The Cardinals voted 30-16 to strike before the game but played since they did not consider the vote enough of a mandate. They had expected a two-thirds or better vote.

Dan Pastorini's 36-yard TD pass to Ken Burroughs lifted Houston over Chicago and Bob Griese's two TD passes and an opportunistic Dolphin defense led Miami past the Gaints. Greg Landry ran two yards for one score and passed for another as Detroit beat Cleveland and reserve quarterback Clint Longley led Dallas on two long second half scoring drives to lead the Cowboys over Pittsburgh.

Nick Mike-Mayer's 41-yard field goal with 2:33 left to play boosted Atlanta over Philadelphia and Ken Anderson's 27-yard TD pass to Isaac Curtis sparked Cincinnati over New Orleans. San Francisco capitalized on three interceptions and two fumbles to defeat Green Bay.

The Man Out Front

New England Patriot's player representative Randy Vataha, with Pat players in background, said the striking New England team was seeking complete support of players on the other 25 NFL clubs in order to bring a settlement to the year long contract dispute with team owners. The press conference was held in a parking lot of the Red Snapper Restaurant in Boston, a mile from Schaefer Stadium. (UPI)

Another Nicklaus Win

PINEHURST, N. C. (UPI)

— Saying he is playing the most consistent golf of his career, Jack Nicklaus let the leaders falter in the wind while he picked up a playoff victory Sunday in the World Open golf tournament.

"When you get Pinehurst with wind and they put the pins in the corners, you've got to think," said Nicklaus, who sank a short par putt on the first sudden-death hole to defeat Billy Casper. "That's what's so great about the tournament."

All week Nicklaus had talked about the famed Pinehurst No. 2 course being one of his favorite courses because it's where he won the 1959 North-South amateur at age 19.

"I won here as an amateur and I wanted to put my name in the books as a pro, too," he said after picking up the $40,000 first prize. "You always like to win on a great course."

Nicklaus started the day at 2-under-par, five strokes behind Tom Weiskopf. But as the leaders continued to suffer bogeys in the tricky wind, Nicklaus played a "good thinking round" without a bogey and chalked up birdies at the fourth and 16th holes for a 69.

Casper dropped a couple of strokes to one-under early Sunday but moved back to four under at the 15th and said he thought he would wrap up the victory with a birdie at the par 5, 16th.

"I felt after I hit my second shot at 16 that I was going to win the tournament," said Casper.

But his second shot went in the sandtrap and he had to settle for a par and finished with a pair of pars to tie Nicklaus.

Casper's drive on the par-4 first hole in the playoff went in the rough and he missed the green. He chipped on about seven feet short and missed it, giving Nicklaus his 11th playoff victory in 18 tries.

Nicklaus said the 1975 season might not be his best "record-wise" but it has been a very consistent year.

"It's the best year of golf I've played," he said. "But whether it's the best year record-wise, that's questionable."

But his performance hasn't been matched this year with five victories and 13 top ten finishes in 15 tournaments. He has also banked $294,263 and has a good lead enroute to the 1975 money title.

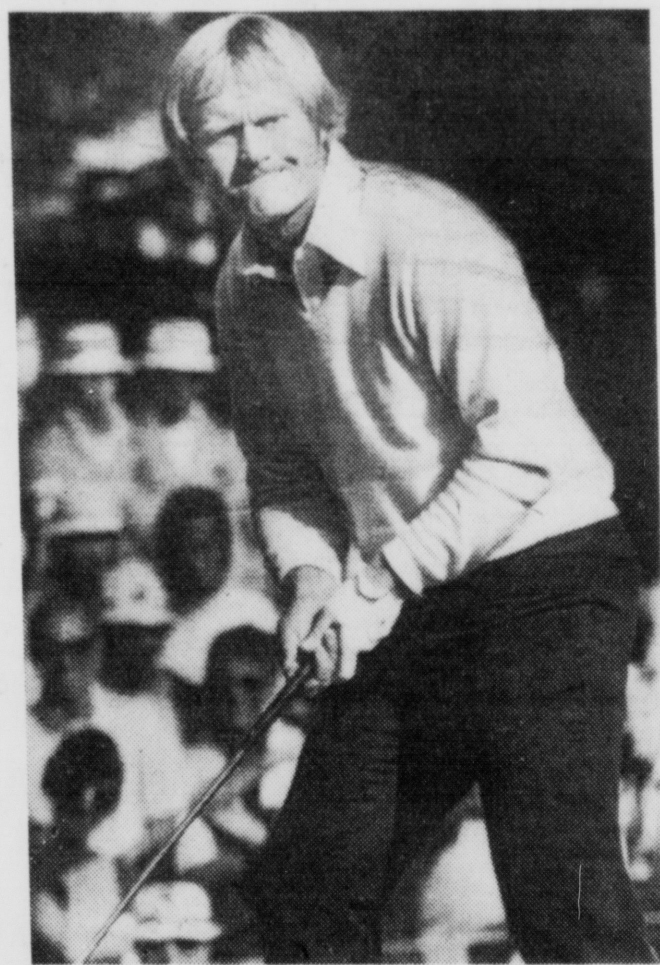

Nicklaus now has 58 career victories.

Weiskopf soared to a 75 Sunday and finished alone in third place at 281 after he put his drive in the woods on the final hole and settled for a bogey, which knocked him out of the playoff.

Second-round leader Pat Fitzsimons, winner of the Los Angeles Open, also shot a 75 Sunday and finished fourth at 282, one stroke ahead of Ed Sneed (75).

John Schlee (71), John Mahaffey (73), Rod Funseth (73) and Larry Nelson (74) finished at even par 284.

Nicklaus and Casper will be teaming with 10 other top American golfers this week against a dozen British golfers in the Ryder Cup matches at the Laurel Valley Golf Club in Ligonier, Pa.

Haynie Paces U.S. Victory

YOKOHAMA, Japan (UPI) — Sandra Haynie shot a two under par 72 today to win the individual competition by two strokes as the United States defeated Japan 29-19 in the $66,666 Sunstar Ladies Professional tournament.

Miss Haynie, who was the first round leader with a three stroke margin over Pat Bradley and Japan's Ayako Nihei, had a 10 under par 212 total for three rounds on the 6,191 yard par 37-74 Yokohama Country Club course. She won the individual top prize of $3,333.

In second place was Miss Bradley, who teed off tied for the lead with Miss Haynie with an eight under 214. By shooting a par 36-38-74. She earned $600,000.

Japan's Takako Kiyomoto, who shot an eight under 66 Sunday, carded an even par 74 and tied for third with Donna Caponi Young, who shot a three under 71 for a seven under 215. They each received $1,416.

The eight-member U.S. team won four matches, lost three and tied one today for a 9-7 point score, accounting for its final winning score of 29-19. A U.S. team defeated Japan 28-20 last year.

Mrs. Young clinched victory for the U.S. team by defeating Miss Nihei, 71-78 in the sixth match for an unbeatable team lead of 26-18 with two matches left.

The winning U.S. team received $10,666, each member getting $1,333. The loser's share was $5,333, with each player getting $666.

Miss Haynie bogeyed the second hole but picked up birdies on the fourth, seventh and eighth for a two under par 35 on the front nine. She birdied the 10th but bogeyed the 17th for a par 37 on the back nine.

Miss Bradley birdied the first and third holes but bogeyed the fourth for a one under par 36 on the front nine. She bogeyed the 15th and 16th and birdied the 18th for a one over par 38 on the back nine.

Wightman Repeat in England

CLEVELAND (UPI) — England's women won the 46th Wightman Cup tennis matches because they played better than the United States team, in British captain Virginia Wade's opinion.

"We played better in the situation, in all the matches," she said of her team, which put together Great Britain's first back-to-back triumphs in 50 years. The U.S. has won 38 challenges to Great Britain's eight.

"It's good for the series that we won two in a row. This time we knew we could win. We came here with the idea we had the talent. We could win if we put our minds to it," said the 30-year old Vicar's daughter, who captained the British to a 6-1 wipeout in Wales last year and a 5-2 victory here this weekend.

She said she thought the key match was Saturday's doubles, in which she teamed with Ann Haydon Jones to crush Julie Anthony and Janet Newberry, 6-2, 6-3.

She said she thought U.S. captain Julie Heldman made "a big mistake" in splitting up the successful doubles pair of Miss Anthony and Mona Schallau.

Glynis Coles won the biggest singles match, defeating Miss Schallau, 6-3, 7-6, in the sixth match to give Great Britain an unbeatable 4-2 lead in the best-of-seven series.

"Both girls had a lot of pressure and were desperate to win," she said. "I knew Glynis would win but it's awful to do it the hard way."

Miss Schallau valiantly fought off seven match points before losing a tie-breaker that gave Great Britain the cherished silver cup.

Great Britain played its top three women in Misses Wade, Coles and Sue Barker, while the U.S. had Chris Evert (first), Miss Newberry (12th), Miss Schallau (15th) and Miss Anthony (unranked).

Miss Heldman is rated fifth but did not play and among the absent were semiretired Billie Jean King, Rosie Casals and Val Ziegenfuss.

"They had a strong team," said Miss Wade, declaring Evert "is worth any two of us" and Miss Heldman has not played well this summer.

Miss Evert won her two singles matches as expected, beating Miss Coles, 6-4, 6-1, and beating Miss Wade, 6-3, 7-6, Sunday in the best match of the weekend.

"Virginia plays very well and I knew I'd have to play very aggressively and not be afraid to try anything new," said Miss Evert.

"I wanted desperately to win that match and played well enough to win if there'd been any (crowd) support," said Miss Wade. "She hits good shot after good shot and you can't beat her when everybody is against you."

Miss Heldman apologized to her team during closing ceremonies, saying, "I'm sorry I couldn't provide anything extra. We may not have been at our best, but by God we tried our hardest."

"It's yours now," she said to the English team, "but we gotta try it again next year."

Kathy Had That Old Confidence

LEAWOOD, Kan. (UPI) — Supreme self confidence has carried Kathy Whitworth to the top of the ladder on the LPGA all-time money list.

But she also needed her accurate putter and a fading field to capture another victory Sunday in the $40,000 Southgate Open.

She carded the best round of the day with a 2-under-par 69 over the 6,085 yard Leawood South Country Club course. Her 213 total for 54-holes netted her $5,700.

After a windswept opening round Friday and perfect conditions on Saturday, the final round was played in a blustering 56 degrees.

"Even though I bogeyed the first and second hole, I scrambled well on the front nine," said the 16-year veteran. "It certainly did wonders for my confidence."

"My putting saved me. I missed some seemingly easy putts but turned around and came right back with the almost impossible ones."

Miss Whitworth, known as one of the finest clutch players on the tour, started the day one stroke behind tour rookie Sylvia Bartolacci of Argentina.

The tall Texan pulled even with Miss Bartolacci after the Argentinian double bogeyed the No. 5 and Kathy birdied No. 7.

"That's the first time I thought about winning the tournament," Miss Whitworth said. "I looked at the leader board and realized I had a good chance."

She added a birdie on No. 9 and two more on No. 11 and No. 13.

Two groups ahead, Greta Boykin, a native of West Germany now living in Conroe, Tex., shot a 1-under 70, finished in a five-way tie for 11th.

The tour's leading money winner this year, Sandra Palmer, finished in a four-way tie for sixth with a 221 behind defending co-champion Jane Black in fourth with 219 and Jan Stephenson in fifth with 220.

The LPGA has four more stops left on this year's tour, with Portland, Ore., next on the scheduled.

A hole-in-one was recorded by Sherilyn Britz of Luverne, Minn. The 32-year-old second year pro used a 6-iron for her ace on the 164-yard 13th. She

Red Sox, Orioles Ready for Showdown

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

It's showdown time in the American League East—and both the Boston Red Sox and Baltimore Orioles are ready.

The Orioles are staging one of their late drives like the 28-6 one that won them the Eastern title in 1974 but the Red Sox, who folded a year ago in the face of the drive, are showing no signs of a collapse.

And so, after 5½ months dating back to April, the AL has a showdown series: the two-game set the Red Sox will play the Orioles Tuesday and Wednesday.

The Red Sox will go into the series with either a 4½ or a 3½-game lead, depending upon the result of their game with the Milwaukee Brewers tonight. A split would pretty much make the Red Sox "safe" and a two-game sweep would virtually eliminate the Orioles.

The teams prepped for the big series Sunday with victories—the Red Sox defeating the Brewers 8-6 and the Orioles beating the Detroit Tigers 9-3. That left the Red Sox with a four-game lead with two weeks left in the season.

Carl Yastrzemski's single drove in the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning and rookie sensation Fred Lynn added a run-scoring single in the game-winning three-run rally. Lynn had four straight hits, raised his RBI total to 99 and average to .336. Hank Aaron hit his 12th homer for the Brewers.

Don Baylor and Elrod Hendricks hit two-run homers and Al Bumbry scored three runs for the Orioles, who have won 10 of their last 12 games. Mike Cuellar was routed in 2 1-3 innings but rookie Paul Mitchell allowed five hits and no runs in the last 6 2-3 innings to win his third game for the Orioles. Ray Bare suffered the loss for Detroit.

Jim Hunter won his 22nd game as New York defeated Cleveland 6-2.

Minnesota beat Oakland 10-8, Kansas City downed California 10-4 and Texas topped Chicago 9-8 in other AL games.

In the National League, it was Pittsburgh 4 Montreal 3, St. Louis 6 New York 2, Philadelphia 13 Chicago 7, Los Angeles 3 Atlanta 2, Houston 4 San Diego 2 and Cincinnati over San Francisco 8-3 after a 4-2 loss.

Yankees 6, Indians 2

Hunter went seven innings for his 22nd victory—second highest of his major league career—with Tippy Martinez pitching two scoreless innings in relief for New York. Roy White's homer and run-scoring hits by Graig Nettles and Rick Dempsey gave the Yankees a 3-0 lead in the third inning and they added three in the seventh. Boog Powell and Rico Carty homered for Cleveland.

Twins 10, A's 8

Danny Thompson's three-run homer was the big blow of a six-run first-inning outburst by Minnesota. Bill Butler went 5 1-3 innings to win his fourth game despite homers by Oakland's Gene Tenace and Claudell Washington. Glenn Abbott was the loser.

Royals 10, Angels 4

Harmon Killebrew capped a four-run first inning rally with the 572nd homer of his career as Kansas City bombed Frank Tanana and dealt the California strikeout king his eighth loss against 15 wins. Steve Busby went 7 1-3 innings for the Royals and raised his record to 17-12.

Rangers 9, White Sox 8

Run-scoring hits by Jeff Burroughs, Tom Grieve and Roy Howell enabled Texas to score three runs in the 13th inning and down Chicago. The Rangers tied the game in the ninth with Len Randle driving in a run with a bloop single and rallied again after the White Sox took an 8-6 lead in the top of the 13th.

Schmidt Would Rather Have Pennant

By BILL MADDEN
UPI Sports Writer

Mike Schmidt would trade in his 36 homers and Steve Carlton would gladly swap his 13 losses for the same elusive prize—a pennant for the Philadelphia Phillies.

No question, Schmidt has more than delivered toward the Phillies' fading hope of catching the Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League East, while Carlton, who was counted on to win 20 games, has been a major disappointment at 13-13.

"I can't make up for those 13 losses but if I could, we'd be in better shape, that's for sure," said Carlton, Sunday's winner of the Phillies' 13-7 triumph over the Chicago Cubs.

Added Schmidt, who belted his 35th and 36th homers to take over the major league lead: "I'd still trade any home run title for a world championship because that's what it's all about." Schmidt also had a run-scoring single to give him four RBIs for the day.

The win at least enabled the Phillies to remain 5½ games back of first place Pittsburgh.

"In order for us to turn it around," Schmidt said, "we've got to beat the Pirates four out of the five games we have left with them. And to be truthful, we can't lose more than two of the 13 games we have left."

In addition to Schmidt's homers, Dick Allen also belted a two-run shot for the Phils and pinch-hitter Tim Hosley delivered a grand slam for the Cubs off rookie Randy Lerch in the ninth.

Elsewhere in the National League Sunday, Pittsburgh kept rolling with a 4-3 victory over Montreal, St. Louis downed New York 6-2, Houston put away San Diego 4-2, Los Angeles shaded Atlanta 3-2 and Cincinnati drubbed San Francisco 8-3 after losing the doubleheader opener to the Giants 4-2.

In the American League, Boston beat Milwaukee 8-6, Baltimore topped Detroit 9-3, New York downed Cleveland 6-2, Minnesota outlasted Oakland 10-8 and Kansas City stopped California 10-4.

Little Brown Jug Draws Nine

DELAWARE, Ohio (UPI) — The Little Brown Jug here Thursday is expected to draw at least nine top Grand Circuit colts, including Nero, winner of the first leg of pacing's Triple Crown.

An all-time record purse of about $136,000 also is expected for the 30th renewal of the pacing classic for 3-year-olds at the Delaware County Fairgrounds track, fastest half-mile course in the nation.

The purse could reach nearly $140,000 if as many as 12 are entered. Last year's prize money was $132,630 for the featured race of a four-day meet.

Nero and the only two horses to beat the fleet Meadow Skipper entry in 17 starts this year, Whata Baron and Osborne's Bret, are early favorites.

Nero, winner of the Cane Pace, was beaten in the Michael Pace at Northfield by Whata Baron, owned by Mrs. Peter Kukurin of East McKeesport, Pa., and driven by Lew Williams, and in the Matron Stake at Detroit by Osborne's Bret, owned by the Osborne Farm of Mentor, Ohio, and driven by Tom Brinkerhoff.

Once again, there probably will not be a filly in the Jug field.

Hawks Gain Split

NEW PALTZ — It was the long ball that swayed the fortunes of the New Paltz State baseball Hawks Sunday as the team played its second doubleheader in the second day of the fall baseball season. A home run by Art Tatnell in the ninth inning of the opening contest lifted Pace College to a 3-2 victory, but the Hawks stormed back in the second game to take an 18-4 romp behind the slugging of Tom Whitaker and Bob Marz.

Combined with New Paltz' sweep of Plattsburgh Saturday, this split gives the team a 3-1 record to carry to Binghamton Wednesday.

Whitaker had two home runs during the day, the first circuit coming in the first inning of the first game to give the Hawks and Bob Vasques a 1-0 lead. Marz drew a walk in the third and came around on a triple by Ken McCloot to produce the second run.

A double and a bad hop single in the fifth cost Vasques his shutout. He would have lost it anyway because he served up a gopher to Pace's Bill Thomas in the sixth that knotted the score at 2-2.

Vasques was still working in the ninth, and he retired the first two batters without any trouble. Tatnell got the wood to one at that point, however, and Pace reliever Keith Brown zipped the Hawks in the bottom half to lock up the decision.

New Paltz got its offense in gear quickly in the second game, opening with four runs in the first in a rally sparked by Whitaker's RBI double. Whitaker came to bat twice in the next inning. He smashed a two-run homer his first trip and, as the Hawks batted around in an 11 run parade, slammed an RBI single in his second appearance. He finished the game with four runs batted in.

Marz accounted for three more Hawk scores in the third, did a passable imitation of Marv Thrunberry, and barely missed his second grand slam in two days. The UCC transfer had belted a slam against Plattsburgh Saturday, and when he came to the plate with the bases loaded in the third inning Sunday, he sent another drive over the fence.

It was a high, drifting fly ball that just carried over the fence. The runner on first had to hold up to make sure it was out, but the speedy Marz didn't see him and ran past his teammate on the basepath.

Marz was called out but was credited with a three-run single. It gave New Paltz an 18-4 lead.

Bob Bolebruch lasted four frames and picked up the win with relief help from Tom Becker.

BC Eagles Make Their Move Against ND

BY KEN ROSENBERG
UPI Sports Writer

The script is the same every year.

Spring practice starts ... college coaches everywhere clamor about competing with the Oklahomas, Southern Californians and Ohio States ... and then comes that first unfortunate full college weekend when sweet dreams turn into harsh realities.

While many of those teams harboring great expectations were shot down by college football's perennial powerhouses Saturday, Boston College hopes to move back into national prominence on television tonight by tackling an emotionally charged Notre Dame squad, playing its first game under new coach Dan Devine.

The Fighting Irish have won their last 11 openers and are 7-1/2 favorites but Devine isn't taking the Eagles lightly.

"Our coaching staff and players are alert to the fact that Boston College is a team with experience, talent and motivation," said Devine. "And I can tell you all of us have a healthy respect for Joe Yukica's team."

And with good reason.

The Eagles, whose "dream" is to challenge Penn State for supremacy in the East, have not appeared in a bowl game since 1942 but they won their final six games last year and sport a well balanced attack.

Two keys to that dream are quarterback Mike Kruczek, who completed an NCAA record 68 percent of his passes last fall, and fullback Keith Barnett, who rushed for 1,097 yards and led the nation in scoring with 134 points.

The Irish, ranked No. 8, open with a no-name offense. Rick Slager, who logged only 18 minutes playing time at quarterback last year, will direct an attack that has lost eight starters from the team which upset Alabama in the Orange Bowl on New Year's day.

Over the weekend, Oklahoma, Ohio State, Southern California, Michigan and Penn State all emerged easy-winners and that can only mean bad news to the upstarts who'd hoped to climb back to prosperity.

Ohio State and Michigan took care of two Big Ten "dreamers"—Michigan State and Wisconsin—by beating them on their own home turfs.

Third ranked Ohio State opened Coach Woody Hayes' 25th season by drubbing Michigan State 21-0 at East Lansing. The win avenged last year's 16-14 loss which had bolstered Michigan State's dream of taking the Big Ten title this time. Pete Johnson scored on TD runs of six and nine yards and Archie Griffin gained over 100 yards for the 22nd successive time for the Buckeyes.

Wisconsin's dreams were spurred by Billy Marek, who led the Big Ten in rushing last year. But when Michigan held Marek to just 58 yards, all Badger hopes went by the wayside. The fifth ranked Wolverines trounced Wisconsin 23-6 as Gordon Bell piled up 210 yards and a touchdown.

So much for Big Ten "dreamers."

"There never was a Big Four in the Big Ten," boasted Hayes. "It always comes down to one-on-one." The ultimate showdown will take place in Ann Arbor on Nov. 22.

The Big Eight figured to be the usual two-team race with Oklahoma and Nebraska fighting for the crown but judging from each team's opener—the race is all but over.

Oklahoma, the nation's top ranked team, got a sterling performance from its second and third string, particularly Horace Ivory and Jim Culbreath, who each scored two TDs and combined for 221 yards in a 62-7 rout of Oregon State.

No. 7 Nebraska, although playing at home, had a surprisingly tough time with Louisiana State, shading the Tigers 10-7. The Cornhuskers, favored by 15 points, needed a 37-yard field goal by Mike Coyle and a five-yard TD pass from Terry Luck to Bob Thomas to gain the victory.

Second ranked Southern California gave notice to Pacific Eight "dreamers" who figured things might be easier this time around now that Anthony Davis has graduated. The defending national champions steamrollered Duke 35-7 Friday night and in the process found the perfect replacement for Davis—Ricky Bell, a junior who rushed for a school record 256 yards and scored four touchdowns.

Ninth ranked Penn State, which squeaked by Temple last week, bounced back in solid fashion, thumping Stanford 34-14. Rich Mauti scored two TDs and Chris Bahr kicked field goals of 39 and 33 yards.

No. 6 Auburn, whose hopes had to be enlivened after Alabama was thrashed by Missouri last Monday, suffered a disheartening blow when it was upset 31-20 by unranked and unheralded Memphis State. Kippy Brown threw for two TDs to present former Alabama aide Richard Williamson his first win as a college head coach.

Elsewhere Saturday, UCLA, headed by John Sciarra's three TDs, ripped Iowa State 37-21. No. 10 Texas A&M blanked Mississippi 7-0. No. 11 Texas routed Colorado State 46-0. Miami of Ohio extended the nation's longest unbeaten string to 24 games with a 50-0 drubbing of Marshall, Tennessee upset 14th ranked Maryland 26-8. No. 15 Florida blasted SMU 40-14. Wake Forest stunned 17th ranked North Carolina State 30-22. No. 18 (tie) Colorado trimmed California 34-27. Rice ripped No. 18 (tie) Houston 24-7. South Carolina ambushed Georgia Tech 23-17. Army ran over Holy Cross 44-7. Navy shellacked Virginia 42-14. Tulane downed Clemson 17-13 and Northwestern surprised Purdue 31-25.

Numbers Game Starts in UCAL

KINGSTON

The first games are history, and the number game is underway in the Ulster County Athletic League's 1975 football season.

Saturday the numbers came up four, 21 and 25. Four was the spread by which Highland High defeated Ontario, 21 was the margin of victory for Red Hook and Walkill, and 25 was the difference between New Paltz and Ellenville.

Those point spreads are the first concrete indications of just what kind of teams populate the UCAL this season. Why were they so big—or so close?

Four, in football, that's not a very big number. It's two less than a touchdown. In Highland's case, it was the difference a couple of successful conversions can provide.

Perhaps the most significant offshoot of Highland's 16-12 triumph is that it is almost sure to remove a "breather" from the schedules of the UCAL's other teams. Ontario was a loser this time out, but it hardly suffered a humiliating defeat. The Indians drew some blood and were in the ballgame to the finish. Rookie Coach John Meehan's new look was evident in Ontario's performance. If normal moral victories do exist, this was one of them. Visting Boiceville might not be so much fun this year.

Now 21, on the other hand, seems like a pretty big number. It's three touchdowns, just what Red Hook ran up on Marlboro. But it really isn't all that big if you consider how much time the Raiders owned the football.

So maybe Red Hook needs a little more time to get used to moving without Jim Merriken. The other side of the scoreboard was for real, however. It read zero. Defense is the battered side of Red Hook's bread.

Walkill's 21-point pounding of Pine Bush was another story. The Panthers were actually in front by four TD's before an interception set the Bushmen up, and Pine Bush was far from a weak opponent.

Scratch off that jittery, opening day first quarter, consider the high mistake rate of a young season, and figure in the confidence that grows with winning, and you come up with a very strong contender at Walkill.

Scoring in every quarter, New Paltz ran up 25 on the Ellies, and that was somewhat of a surprise. The Blue Devils didn't figure to be a championship team this year, but nobody expected the Huges to look like a powerhouse either.

A Towerhouse is just what New Paltz acted like, even without starting quarterback Sean Peterson who is out for the season with a broken leg.

Goldsmith Traps Champion

Guy Goldsmith of the Wawarsing Sportsmen's Association broke 50 straight targets to capture the 1975 Ulster County trapshoot title Sunday in the annual field day competition.

Stan Gomes and Walt Carr of Mid-Hudson tied for second with 49/50. Gomes won the shootoff 23-22.

Ed Hacey of Walkill was crowned Champ of Champs with a 47/50 performance against nine opponents.

The other individual champions by classifications were: Class AA—Paul Wirthman, New Paltz, 48; Class A—Fred Faerber, New Paltz, 47; Class B—Bob Carlson, Lake Katrine, 47; Class C—Walt Carr, Mid-Hudson, 49; Class D—Rich Carter, Walker Valley, 45; Unclassified—Rube Anderson, New Paltz, 47.

Lil Grossi captured the ladies division with 37/50. Bob Petras took the Intermediate title with 42 and Bob Markle, the Junior with 23/25.

Team honors went to the Wawarsing Sportsmen's Association with a 234/250 score, as Eugene Smith posted 46, Fred Waner 47, Ray Markle 46, Phil Moore 48, Max Belcher 47.

Saugerties Fish and Game Club took home the team handicap championship with a total on 230s scratch and 14 handicap. Frank Mauro and Harold DePew hit 48 each for the Sawyers, with Ray Longendyke adding 47, Ivan Lauf-46 and Ray Horvers 41.

Stan Gomes of Walker Valley and Dan Hurley of Saugerties tied with 96/100 scores for the coveted High Overall Trophy (team and individual scores) with Gomes winning the 25-shot shootoff, 23-22.

Brian Sawchuck of Lake Katrine was awarded the Mr. Gun trophy, as the man who had done the most for trapshooting and his interest in the Ulster County Circuit.

Jim Weed of Walker Valley took home the Old Timers Trophy as the oddest shooter in the field at age 66.

Bills Lose 4th Player

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. (UPI) — The Buffalo Bills lost a fourth player for the season in their final weekend of exhibition football.

Starting wide receiver Ahmad Rashad underwent surgery for torn ligaments or cartilages in his left knee Sunday and will miss the entire season, a team spokesman said.

Rashad was the Bills' leading receiver last season, catching 36 passes for 433 yards and four touchdowns. He scored two other touchdowns on fumble recoveries.

He was injured during the Bills' 9-7 loss to Kansas City Saturday.

"It's so tough to lose Ahmad, especially now," said head coach Lou Saban. "I've been through many injury crises before, but not quite like this much. I don't know how all the injuries are affecting the team."

"Nothing has been said. You just keep working. If you linger and dwell on injuries, you just become disturbed by them."

Tides Flow, 1-0

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — Bill Laxton struck out six en route to a two-hit shutout Sunday as the Tidewater Tides took their first game over the Evansville Triplets, 1-0, in the golden anniversary edition of the Junior World Series.

The teams now travel to Evansville to complete the best-of-seven series, with the Triplets holding a 2-1 advantage. They square off again tonight.

Laxton, whose regular season record for the Tides was 11-4, went the distance and needed only the single run his squad produced in the sixth inning.

Convention Report Given at BPW Meeting

A report on the Las Vegas, Nevada convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Club was given during the first meeting of the season of the Ulster County chapter Sept. 9 at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Mrs. Collette Sonnenberg, president of BPWC, was on hand for that convention held July 20-24 and said it dramatized the growing strength and involvement of career women on national issues.

In her report, Mrs. Sonnenberg noted that a record-breaking 4,000 delegates, alternates and observers attended the Nevada sessions. A message from President Gerald R. Ford was read by Marie Bowden, national president of the BPWC, while greetings were read from such notables as Margaret Chase Smith, Anne Armstrong, Shirley Temple Black, Liz Carpenter and Margaret Mead.

The local BPWC president also reported that delegates at this year's convention concentrated on the campaign to complete ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment and on other current issues of particular significance to employed women.

The BPW, incidentally, is made up of 170,000 members on 3,739 local clubs and is the first and largest organization of employed women.

The Equal Rights Amendment, the focus of much of the convention discussion, has been ratified in 34 states with four more needed to enact this amendment into law. The BPW has raised more than $250,000 in voluntary contributions which has been spent in state ratification campaigns.

The Nevada convention also resulted in adoption of the national legislative platform, including the E.R.A. and other legislative concerns of career women, as a basis for legislative activities for the coming year.

Other highlights included a speech by Betty S. Murphy, chairperson of the National Labor Relations board as well as a discussion of the 1975-76 national program embracing the bicentennial, Perspective for Women, public relations and cancer research.

At the recent opening meeting of the season formal announcement was made of the new officers and board of directors for 1975-76 including: Executive Board comprising the Mms. Collette Sonnenberg, president; Nancy Hussey, first vice-president; Nancy Plog, second vice-president; Marilyn Osterhoudt, recording secretary; Catherine Haines, corresponding secretary and Ethel Howard, treasurer.

The board of directors include:

LIFE TODAY

Community Concerts Launches 1975-76 Season with '1776'

Two of the main architects of the Declaration of Independence in the musical "1776" are Don Perkins (L), in the role of John Adams and Sam Kressen, in the title role of Benjamin Franklin.

The touring company of "1776" will appear at the Community Theater in Kingston, Wednesday, Sept. 17, at 8 p.m. to initiate the 1975-76 season for members of the Community Concert Association.

The production has been acclaimed by critics across the nation. "It is a magnificently staged and stunning original musical. It is an artistic creation such as we do not often find in our theaters. It is warm, it is funny, it is moving," said John Chapman of the New York Daily News. "Fine, rousing, imaginative entertainment, an enthralling accomplishment," writes William Glover of the Associated Press.

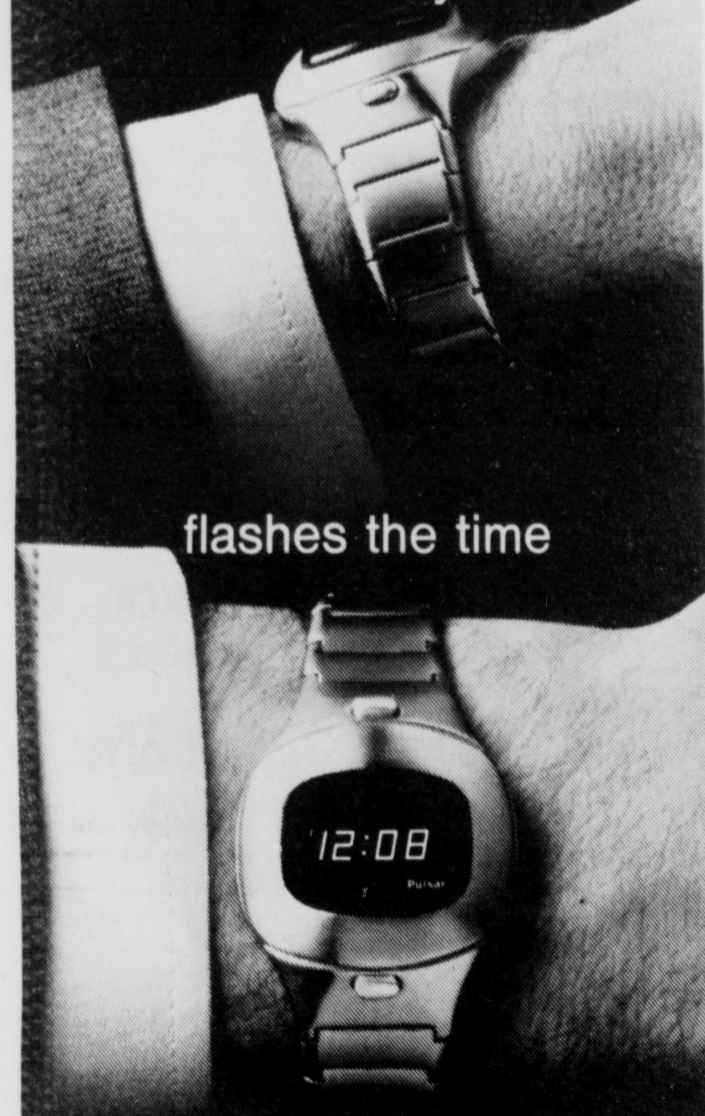

The action centers on John Adams and his efforts to persuade the congressional delegates to declare America free from British rule. With the aid of his friend, Benjamin Franklin, he gets Thomas Jefferson to write a declaration of independence, and eventually the three convince the delegates to accept the ideas set forth in the famed document which was signed on July 4th.

Starring in the touring production as John Adams will be Don Perkin, who, like the character he portrays, comes from Boston. Sam Kressen, a resident of Philadelphia, will portray Ben Franklin. Kressen has been the city's official greeter, costumed and bewigged, ever since he impersonated Franklin at his 250th birthday celebration there in 1956.

The play by Peter Stone, with music and lyrics by Sherman Edwards brilliantly tells the familiar tale of the men who made the American Revolution. "1776" is designed to entertain theater audiences...it is something worth cheering...original, provocative, inspiring say the critics. This is family entertainment at its finest.

The Community Concert Association is indeed proud to present this outstanding award winning spectacular...a fitting tribute to our Bicentennial. Entrance to the concert is by membership card only. No single admissions are sold for individual concerts. There are no reserved seats. Doors to the theater will open at 7 p.m. for the convenience of the public.

Kingston Residents Take Tour

Long-time residents of Kingston, Mrs. Helen Christensen and Mrs. Carrie Reed, recently enjoyed a vacation tour of California and Hawaii which included an old-fashioned steam train excursion through the magnificent redwood forests on the West's oldest steam railroad, the Roaring Camp and Big Trees Narrow-Gauge Railroad at Felton near San Francisco.

As the Roaring Camp passenger train chugged up the slopes of Bear Mountain on the steepest railroad grade in North America, they passed through the first redwood groves to be preserved for posterity and crossed spectacular trestles spanning the redwood forested canyons. Returning to Roaring Camp, these Kingston ladies enjoyed an old-fashioned chuckwagon barbecue lunch before returning to San Francisco and flying on to Honolulu.

Mrs. Christensen and Mrs. Reed visited California and Hawaii on a two-week vacation tour organized by Trade Wind Tours, Inc.

If It Works, Great!

Brooks Mendell, New York, an expert on self defense and whose book "Protect Yourself" has been a primer for the military, demonstrates method of foiling a would-be attacker who is carrying a gun. N. Y. Daily News Bldg. guard James Hughes, portraying would-be attacker, points revolver at Mendell, who quickly jams his right hand between gun's hammer and firing pin; on follow through, Mendell's left hand darts over grabbing gun hand, giving sharp twist so that gun is pointed at attacker's head. Mendell says it's a defense that depends on trained reflexes, leverage, footwork, parrying, timing, and a knowledge of the body's weak points. (UPI)

Boston Guard Reduced

BOSTON (UPI) — A 600-man National Guard unit, ordered into Boston in case of possible violence, has been cut in half because of the relative ly quiet opening of public schools under court-ordered desegregation.

The second week of school under the Phase Two plan, which includes the busing of approximately 26,000 students, began today.

A spokesman for Gov. Michael Dukakis said the order to send some 300 guardsmen back to Camp Curtis Guild in Wakefield was prompted by the quiet in the schools during the first week.

The weekend withdrawal of the massive school security forces in the city, The guardsmen will remain on standby at camp. In addition, some 1,800 local and state police and 100 U.S. marshals were available.

Boston School Supt. Marion Fahey, who said 85 percent attendance is typical for an urban school system, was optimistic more students would return to school as the year progressed.

City Councilor Louise Day Hicks, a leader of the city's antibusing movement, maintains a successful school boycott is the reason for low attendance among whites.

A total of 112 persons were arrested last week, most of them for misdemeanors. Almost all the serious trouble took place away from the schools at night, including attacks on police and firemen, isolated firebombings and incidents of arson.

No students were injured. Police spokesman Charles Sullivan said "19 police officers were injured, including three or four more than once."

Citywide attendance was at 59.2 percent at the opening of a week ago today when the city began its second year of classroom desegregation. It rose to a high of 69.1 percent Thursday but dropped to 68.4 percent Friday because of traditional weekend absenteeism.

Win At Bridge

First — Don't Draw Trumps!

By Oswald &amp; James Jacoby

Oswald: "The American Bridge Teacher's quarterly is always a fine source for hands used by teachers to illustrate points of play."

Jim: "They are almost always very simple and straight forward, so that even beginners can understand and follow them."

Oswald: "Today's hand is described by Paul Boardman. It is an exercise in not drawing trumps."

Jim: "Paul points out a trump or diamond lead would ruin South's party, but the actual lead was the jack of clubs. This enables South to make the hand by the simple expedient of cross-ruffing out the hearts and clubs and finally throwing East in with his ace of trumps. The line of play is to win the first trick with the ace of clubs while discarding a heart from dummy. Ruff a club; cash ace of hearts, cross ruff the rest of the hearts and clubs and lead a spade."

"East has to take his ace and must either allow South to ruff in dummy and discard a diamond or lead away from his king up to dummy's ace-queen."

Ford's Mind on Gasoline, Bread Prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The price of bread and gasoline occupies much of President Ford's time this week.

He meets with Farm Bureau Federation leaders at the White House later today to discuss Soviet purchases of U.S. grain and the implications for domestic food prices and organized labor.

Ford and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger have indicated some thought is being given to a possible agreement with the Russians to swap U.S. grain for Soviet oil. Ford has sent an emissary to Moscow for talks on long-term U.S.-Soviet grain trading.

The President, who played golf Sunday after returning from a weekend trip to Missouri, Kansas and Texas, also had meetings scheduled this week with his energy advisers, presumably to work out an elusive compromise with Congress on a timetable for decontrolling domestic oil prices.

Ford, wearing a bulletproof vest at times but apparently undaunted by heavy security arrangements on his weekend travels, returns to the West Coast for another weekend of speechmaking and politicking starting Friday.

It was in Sacramento little more than a week ago that a young woman aimed a .45 caliber pistol at Ford from two feet away.

Next weekend's foray represents Ford's attempt to keep up his image in the home territory of former California

Gov. Ronald Reagan, a possible challenger for the presidency.

Ford spoke again of the need for U.S. independence of foreign oil at his last stop Saturday, at Midland, Tex., where he dedicated a petroleum museum.

Referring to the Senate vote last week sustaining his veto of a six-month extension of oil price controls, Ford said, "I hope we are finally on the road to energy independence in America. But we've got a long way to go."

"If we don't give America's oil industry the incentives to search for new sources and new production techniques through decontrol and if we continue the present trend, within 10 years we will import more than half of the oil we need," he said.

The stalemate over oil price controls, which expired Sept. 1, involves the length of time for a temporary extension, which congressional Democrats want so they can formulate a long-term energy plan.

The Democrats are pushing for a two-month extension retroactive to Sept. 1. But the administration says it won't go beyond Oct. 20. However, there have been hints from the White House it may accept the 60 days.

As for grain, an important breakthrough in the stalemate between farmers and the AFL-CIO, which threatened to boycott Russian grain shipments, occurred last week.

Labor chief George Meany agreed to temporarily call off the boycott and Ford sent a negotiator to Moscow to work on an agreement under which the Soviets would buy a regular amount of American grain each year.

Such an agreement would break the current boom-or-bust pattern of heavy Soviet buying in years when Russian crops fail and very small purchases in good Soviet crop seasons. It is the big, unexpected purchases that tend to disrupt the domestic food market.

Administration officials indicate they do not expect a long-term grain sales agreement to result in the government-to-government contracts Meany envisions between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Mother Seton Is Canonized By Pope Paul

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI sat on his red throne as gusts of autumn wind blew across St. Peter's Square, flapping clerical capes in the crowd of more than 100,000 persons.

In a colorful ceremony against the imposing, domed backdrop of St. Peter's Basilica, the Pope declared Elizabeth Ann Bayley Seton the first American-born, Roman Catholic saint.

"Rejoice, we say to the great nation of the United States of America," he declared. "Rejoice for your glorious daughter. Be proud of her. And know how to preserve her fruitful heritage."

About 16,000 Americans led the crowd's applause Sunday as the Pope canonized Mother Seton, culminating a 100-year-old campaign by U.S. Catholics for her sainthood.

"We declare and define that Blessed Elizabeth Ann Bayley Seton is a saint and we inscribe her name in the calendar of saints and establish that she should be devoutly honored among the saints in the universal church," the Pope said in Latin at 10:07 a.m.

Balls of white clouds floated across the blue sky above the basilica, the world's largest church. Colorful clerical garb of white, black, scarlet and gold billowed in the wind.

The New York-born socialite, an Episcopalian convert to Catholicism, founded America's first order of nuns — the Sisters of Charity — and pioneered the U.S. parochial school system.

She was the first native-born American and second U.S. citizen to become a saint. Italian-born Mother Frances Xavier Cabrini, a naturalized American, was canonized in 1947.

The Pope hailed Mother Seton, who died in 1821, as "the first flower in the calendar of the saints." He said her canonization honored "the nation from which she marvelously sprang forth."

"May the dynamism and authenticity of her life be an example in our day, for generations to come, of what women can and must accomplish, in the fulfillment of their role, for the good of humanity," he said.

Women played an unprecedented role in the two-hour ceremony.

For the first time in church history, women served as the four "advocates" who traditionally petition a pontiff for the canonization of a new saint.

In another first, Sister Hildegard Mahoney, general superior of the Sisters of Charity of St. Elizabeth at Convent Station, N. J., helped celebrate the canonization mass by reading the first lesson.

The 77-year-old Pope speeded up the canonization process to name Mother Seton a saint during the church's 1975 holy year. He waived clerical proofs for the last of four miracles required for sainthood.

Pope Paul gave communion to the surviving beneficiaries of two of the reputed miracles — Swedish-born American Carl Kalin, 73, and Mrs. Ann O'Neill Hooe, 28, of Severn, Md.

Kalin recovered from fulminating meningo-encephalitis in 1963 after prayers to Mother Seton. Mrs. Hooe recovered from leukemia in 1952. The third, a Sister of Charity nun, recovered from cancer of the pancreas in 1933.

Betty Bayley was born into a New York City socialite family two years before the Declaration of Independence. She was 19 when she married William Seton, 26, scion of a noted shipping family.

Mrs. Seton, a neighbor of Alexander Hamilton and friend of George Washington, had five children. She loved dancing and the theater until her storybook world collapsed at the age of 30.

William went bankrupt, took his family to Italy and died in a month. His widow was introduced to Catholicism by a devout Italian family.

She returned to New York and became a Catholic. Shunned by one-time Protestant friends in New York, she moved to Baltimore. She then took religious vows, founding the Sisters of Charity and a parochial school.

CIA Probers and the Secret Documents

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House investigating committee today moved toward a showdown with the White House over possession of classified intelligence documents.

The White House called on the House Select Committee on Intelligence to return immediately "all classified materials previously furnished the committee" after the committee released five paragraphs of a Middle East situation report made just before the 1973 Arab-Israeli hostilities broke out.

The committee's chairman, Otis Pike, D-N.Y., said he would not comply with the request until he consults with committee members and House Speaker Carl Albert.

The White House said the text of the released paragraphs contained words still classified. But Pike said his committee will continue releasing information if it is in the public interest.

Pike said a closed committee meeting to map out the committee's next step was necessary.

Vice President Nelson Rockefeller said during the weekend the spreading of intelligence documents around could be dangerous. Rockefeller, who had headed a presidential commission to investigate the CIA, said Pike's committee had "breached American security."

"The trouble is, a lot of people are handling materials who are not trained and do not understand their importance or significance ... in terms of our national security. This could be extremely dangerous."

Assistant Attorney General Rex Lee insisted on return of the documents. He said executive branch employees will be instructed to refuse to testify or provide classified information "until the committee satisfactorily alters its position."

Meanwhile, after months of study behind closed doors, intelligence investigators under Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, planned public hearings Tuesday to look into CIA possession of exotic lethal toxins that had been ordered destroyed by the White House in 1970.

Religious Warfare Continues Near Tripoli

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Lebanese army troops killed a dozen Moslem militiamen today in a flareup of religious warfare near the embattled northern coastal city of Tripoli.

In Beirut, armored cars and security troops cordoned off rival Moslem and Christian neighborhoods to prevent a resumption of clashes that killed six persons and wounded seven others Sunday.

Radio Beirut said the mainly Christian-led Lebanese army killed 12 Moslem fighters and wounded one at a barricade near the village of Chekka, blocking the road to Tripoli.

The armed Moslems jumped out of cars and opened fire on the soldiers at the barricade, the radio said. The early morning battle raged for more than two hours.

Reporters in Tripoli said the dead men belonged to Tripoli's leftist October 24 movement, involved in heavy fighting last week with Christian militiamen from the nearby town of Zghorta.

The government troops, sent to Tripoli to quell the fighting, have occupied nine miles of buffer zone separating predominantly Moslem Tripoli from largely Christian Zghorta.

In Beirut, motorists were advised to stay off the roads around the leftist Moslem district of Chiah and the right-wing Christian stronghold of Ain Rummaneh on the southern outskirts of the capital.

Machine gun fire broke out in the two neighborhoods Sunday only a few hours after similar exchanges subsided between the nearby Moslem Karantina district and Christian Ashrafiyeh.

runs until next September.

However, Western diplomats said the Ethiopian government statements took Washington by surprise.

The United States considers the outpost a vital communications link and had hoped the technicians would be able to maintain it through 1978, the end of a 25-year agreement, the diplomats said.

The diplomats said both governments were discussing the situation and that President Ford had expressed a personal interest.

The Eritreans have been fighting a 13-year battle for independence against Ethiopia. Several thousand persons have died in escalated violence the last few months.

Two Still Being Held

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (UPI) — The United States and Ethiopia have begun urgent talks on the future of the Kagne communications base where Eritrean separatists kidnapped two American technicians Friday, western diplomats said today.

The naval facility, in the Eritrean capital of Asmara, once employed 4,500 American technicians, but the staff has been gradually reduced to about 40 because of the increasing number of attacks by secessionist rebels.

The two men kidnapped Friday were identified as Army Spec. 5 David S. Strickland, of Orlando, Fla., and Navy ETN-3 Thomas C. Bowidowicz, of Jersey City, N.J. No ransom demands have been received.

Eritrean rebels still hold two other technicians kidnapped from the base two months ago. Brig. Gen. Tefari Bante, chairman of Ethiopia's Provisional Military Government, told newsmen Sunday that the Kagne base would be closed "this year."

Later, the government issued a second statement saying although the base was "in the final stage of closing down" this would be completed within the current Ethiopian calendar year which

'Symbolic Surrender' Opposed by U.S.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — The General Assembly's special economic session drew to a close today with the United States determined to fight a "symbolic surrender" to the developing nations.

Delegates hoping to wind up the two-week session today polished up the final details of a plan for bridging the gap between rich and poor nations.

The assembly was expected to vote on the proposal by the end of the day, but last-minute additions by the "Group of 77" developing nations threatened American support.

Despite U.S. opposition, the Third World countries called Sunday for linking the prices of raw materials and industrial goods to a global commodity index.

"I don't want to say an agreement is in jeopardy, but agreement has not been reached and the clock is running," U.S. Ambassador Daniel Moynihan said Sunday. "Where we thought we had agreement evidently we do not."

Moynihan said some of the delegates from the developing countries appeared to want a "symbolic surrender from the United States, a symbolic admission of guilt."

"But we are not guilty any more than any other nation, any other people in the world, and we are not plea-bargaining," he said. "We don't feel our record is anything to be ashamed of."

Some delegates talked of carrying the special session over to Tuesday morning, but most wanted to conclude it by tonight to make way for the opening of the assembly's regular 1975 session Tuesday afternoon.
